THE ALPHABET

My vocabularies are written, so far as possible, in simple phonetic English. The words are divided into syllables separated by hyphens. The accented syllable is marked with the acute accent (′).

1. Sounds that have a fixed and definite value in English, like our words pin, peg, hat, not, and so on, are pronounced exactly as in English. In such syllables diacritical marks are unnecessary and as a rule are omitted.

2. Sounds represented in English by a double consonant, or by a syllable the pronunciation of which is not phonetic, are always spelled phonetically. Thus the sounds represented by our words all and who are written awl and hoo.

3. Unmarked vowels, except in syllables having a fixed value like those mentioned in section 1, have the usual long or pure sound given them in the English alphabet.

4. An unmarked vowel standing alone (as a syllable or word) always takes its long or pure alphabetic sound.

Key to vowel sounds, diacritical marks, and so on.

ā as in acorn, date, late, mane.
ă as in fat, bat, hat, have, man.
ah as in far, father, what.
aw as in awl, awful.
ē (or e unmarked) as in eject, eternal, meat.
ĕ as in end, met, net, check, peg, pen, her.
ī (or i unmarked) as in ice, iron, pine, file.
ĭ as in it, ill, pin, fin, fit, pick, admit.
ō (or o unmarked) as in note, poke.
ŏ as in not, pot, odd, frog.
oo as in ooze, spoon.
oi as in oil, boil, join.
ow as in how, plow, out.
ū (or u unmarked) as in mule, mute, acute. If the u sound forms a syllable by itself, it is commonly spelled yu, pronounced you.
û for a somewhat uncertain or obscure vowel sound, as in but and sun, known as the 'neutral vowel.'

Prolonged vowels are indicated by doubling the letter (as aa, ee, &c.)

Prolonged or trilled consonants are indicated by a double acute accent (″).

The consonants, except c, g, and q, have their ordinary English values; c and g having in English both hard and soft sounds, require special treatment; q is not used. The q sound occurs only before u, and is better represented by kw (kween instead of queen).

c is never used except before h, as in chin, chum, chap, church. It is commonly preceded by t to render the pronounciation more correct. Hence the usual combination is tch, as in hatch.

g is always hard, as in get, give, grind.

j is always soft, as in jet, jam, jelly, judge.

s has its usual sound, as in see, sink, soft, &c., and is also used instead of c for the soft sound of c in our words cent, cinder, mice.

^{ch} (super) has the soft sound as in german ach, büch, &c. (In MS written $\underline{\underline{ch}}$)

^{n} (super) is nasalized, and follows a nasalized vowel, as o^{n}. (In MS written $\underline{\underline{n}}$)

An apostrophe (') after a vowel followed by another letter gives the long sound to the vowel, and may also indicate an omitted or silent letter.

An apostrophe (') at either end of a syllable calls for an exploded sound.

An exclamation (!) after a letter indicates that the letter is stressed.

THE ALPHABET

My vocabularies are written, so far as possible, in simple phonetic English. The words are divided into syllables separated by hyphens. The accented syllable is marked with the acute accent (′).

1. Sounds that have a fixed and definite value in English, like our words pin, peg, hat, not, and so on, are pronounced exactly as in English. In such syllables diacritical marks are unnecessary and as a rule are omitted.

2. Sounds represented in English by a double consonant, or by a syllable the pronunciation of which is not phonetic, are always spelled phonetically. Thus the sounds represented by our words all and who are written awl and hoo.

3. Unmarked vowels, except in syllables having a fixed value like those mentioned in section 1, have the usual long or pure sound given them in the English alphabet.

4. An unmarked vowel standing alone (as a syllable or word) always takes its long or pure alphabetic sound.

ā as in acorn, date, late, mane.
ah as in far, father, what.
aw as in awl, awful.
ē (or e unmarked) as in eject, eternal, meat.
ĕ as in end, met, net, check, peg, pen, her.
ī (or i unmarked) as in ice, iron, pine, file.
ĭ as in it, ill, pin, fin, fit, pick, admit.
oo as in ooze, spoon.
ow as in how, plow, out.
ū (or u unmarked) as in mule, mute, acute. If the u sound forms a syllable by itself, it is commonly spelled yu, pronounced you.
û for a somewhat uncertain or obscure vowel sound, as in but and sun, known as the 'neutral vowel.'

Prolonged vowels are indicated by doubling the letter (as aa, ee, &c.)

Prolonged or trilled consonants are indicated by a double acute accent (″).

The consonants, except c, g, and q, have their ordinary English values; c and g having in English both hard and soft sounds, require special treatment; q is not used. The q sound occurs only before u, and is better represented by kw (kween instead of queen).

c is never used except before h, as in chin, chum, chap, church. It is commonly preceded by t to render the pronounciation more correct. Hence the usual combination is tch, as in hatch.

g is always hard, as in get, give, grind.

j is always soft, as in jet, jam, jelly, judge.

s has its usual sound, as in see, sink, soft, &c., and is also used instead of c for the soft sound of c in our words cent, cinder, mice.

^{ch} (super) has the soft sound as in german ach, buch, &c. (In MS written $\underline{^{ch}}$)

^{n} (super) is nasalized, and follows a nasalized vowel, as o^{n}. (In MS written $\underline{^{n}}$)

An apostrophe (') after a vowel followed by another letter gives the long sound to the vowel, and may also indicate an omitted or silent letter.

An apostrophe (') at either end of a syllable calls for an exploded sound.

An exclamation (!) after a letter indicates that the letter is stressed.

THE ALPHABET

My vocabularies are written, so far as possible, in simple phonetic English. The words are divided into syllables separated by hyphens. The accented syllable is marked with the acute accent (′).

1. Sounds that have a fixed and definite value in English, like our words pin, peg, hat, not, and so on, are pronounced exactly as in English. In such syllables diacritical marks are unnecessary and as a rule are omitted.

2. Sounds represented in English by a double consonant, or by a syllable the pronunciation of which is not phonetic, are always spelled phonetically. Thus the sounds represented by our words all and who are written awl and hoo.

3. Unmarked vowels, except in syllables having a fixed value like those mentioned in section 1, have the usual long or pure sound given them in the English alphabet.

4. An unmarked vowel standing alone (as a syllable or word) always takes its long or pure alphabetic sound.

Key to vowel sounds, diacritical marks, and so on.

ā as in acorn, date, late, mane.
ah as in far, father, what.
aw as in awl, awful.
ē (or e unmarked) as in eject, eternal, meat.
ĕ as in end, met, net, check, peg, pen, her.
ī (or i unmarked) as in ice, iron, pine, file.
ĭ as in it, ill, pin, fin, fit, pick, admit.
oo as in ooze, spoon.
ow as in how, plow, out.
ū (or u unmarked) as in mule, mute, acute. If the u sound forms a syllable by itself, it is commonly spelled yu, pronounced you.
û for a somewhat uncertain or obscure vowel sound, as in but and sun, known as the 'neutral vowel.'

Prolonged vowels are indicated by doubling the letter (as aa, ee, &c.)

Prolonged or trilled consonants are indicated by a double acute accent (″).

The consonants, except c, g, and q, have their ordinary English values; c and g having in English both hard and soft sounds, require special treatment; q is not used. The q sound occurs only before u, and is better represented by kw (kween instead of queen).

c is never used except before h, as in chin, chum, chap, church. It is commonly preceded by t to render the pronounciation more correct. Hence the usual combination is tch, as in hatch.

g is always hard, as in get, give, grind.

j is always soft, as in jet, jam, jelly, judge.

s has its usual sound, as in see, sink, soft, &c., and is also used instead of c for the soft sound of c in our words cent, cinder, mice.

^{ch} (super) has the soft sound as in german ach, buch, &c. (In MS written $\underline{\underline{ch}}$)

^{n} (super) is nasalized, and follows a nasalized vowel, as o^{n}. (In MS written $\underline{n}$)

An apostrophe (') after a vowel followed by another letter gives the long sound to the vowel, and may also indicate an omitted or silent letter.

An apostrophe (') at either end of a syllable calls for an exploded sound.

An exclamation (!) after a letter indicates that the letter is stressed.

Redwood is Hoi'ch=-kut in language of lower Redwood Creek tribe.

THE ALPHABET

My vocabularies are written, so far as possible, in simple phonetic English. The words are divided into syllables separated by hyphens. The accented syllable is marked with the acute accent (′).

1. Sounds that have a fixed and definite value in English, like our words pin, peg, hat, not, and so on, are pronounced exactly as in English. In such syllables diacritical marks are unnecessary and as a rule are omitted.

2. Sounds represented in English by a double consonant, or by a syllable the pronunciation of which is not phonetic, are always spelled phonetically. Thus the sounds represented by our words all and who are written awl and hoo.

3. Unmarked vowels, except in syllables having a fixed value like those mentioned in section 1, have the usual long or pure sound given them in the English alphabet.

4. An unmarked vowel standing alone (as a syllable or word) always takes its long or pure alphabetic sound.

Key to vowel sounds, diacritical marks, and so on.

ā as in acorn, date, late, mane.
ah as in far, father, what.
aw as in awl, awful.
ē (or e unmarked) as in eject, eternal, meat.
ĕ as in end, met, net, check, peg, pen, her.
ī (or i unmarked) as in ice, iron, pine, file.
ĭ as in it, ill, pin, fin, fit, pick, admit.
oo as in ooze, spoon.
ow as in how, plow, out.
ū (or u unmarked) as in mule, mute, acute. If the u sound forms a syllable by itself, it is commonly spelled yu, pronounced you.
û for a somewhat uncertain or obscure vowel sound, as in but and sun, known as the 'neutral vowel.'

Prolonged vowels are indicated by doubling the letter (as aa, ee, &c.)

Prolonged or trilled consonants are indicated by a double acute accent (″).

The consonants, except c, g, and q, have their ordinary English values; c and g having in English both hard and soft sounds, require special treatment; q is not used. The q sound occurs only before u, and is better represented by kw (kween instead of queen).

c is never used except before h, as in chin, chum, chap, church. It is commonly preceded by t to render the pronounciation more correct. Hence the usual combination is tch, as in hatch.

g is always hard, as in get, give, grind.

j is always soft, as in jet, jam, jelly, judge.

s has its usual sound, as in see, sink, soft, &c., and is also used instead of c for the soft sound of c in our words cent, cinder, mice.

^{ch} (super) has the soft sound as in german ach, büch, &c. (In MS written $\underline{^{ch}}$)

^{n} (super) is nasalized, and follows a nasalized vowel, as o^{n}. (In MS written $\underline{^{n}}$)

An apostrophe (') after a vowel followed by another letter gives the long sound to the vowel, and may also indicate an omitted or silent letter.

An apostrophe (') at either end of a syllable calls for an exploded sound.

An exclamation (!) after a letter indicates that the letter is stressed.

THE ALPHABET

My vocabularies are written, so far as possible, in simple phonetic English. The words are divided into syllables separated by hyphens. The accented syllable is marked with the acute accent (′).

1. Sounds that have a fixed and definite value in English, like our words pin, peg, hat, not, and so on, are pronounced exactly as in English. In such syllables diacritical marks are unnecessary and as a rule are omitted.

2. Sounds represented in English by a double consonant, or by a syllable the pronunciation of which is not phonetic, are always spelled phonetically. Thus the sounds represented by our words all and who are written awl and hoo.

3. Unmarked vowels, except in syllables having a fixed value like those mentioned in section 1, have the usual long or pure sound given them in the English alphabet.

4. An unmarked vowel standing alone (as a syllable or word) always takes its long or pure alphabetic sound.

Key to vowel sounds, diacritical marks, and so on.

ā as in acorn, date, late, mane.
ah as in far, father, what.
aw as in awl, awful.
ē (or e unmarked) as in eject, eternal, meat.
ĕ as in end, met, net, check, peg, pen, her.
ī (or i unmarked) as in ice, iron, pine, file.
ĭ as in it, ill, pin, fin, fit, pick, admit.
oo as in ooze, spoon.
ow as in how, plow, out.
ū (or u unmarked) as in mule, mute, acute. If the u sound forms a syllable by itself, it is commonly spelled yu, pronounced you.
û for a somewhat uncertain or obscure vowel sound, as in but and sun, known as the 'neutral vowel.'

Prolonged vowels are indicated by doubling the letter (as aa, ee, &c.)

Prolonged or trilled consonants are indicated by a double acute accent (″).

The consonants, except c, g, and q, have their ordinary English values; c and g having in English both hard and soft sounds, require special treatment; q is not used. The q sound occurs only before u, and is better represented by kw (kween instead of queen).

c is never used except before h, as in chin, chum, chap, church. It is commonly preceded by t to render the pronounciation more correct. Hence the usual combination is tch, as in hatch.

g is always hard, as in get, give, grind.

j is always soft, as in jet, jam, jelly, judge.

s has its usual sound, as in see, sink, soft, &c., and is also used instead of c for the soft sound of c in our words cent, cinder, mice.

^{ch} (super) has the soft sound as in german ach, büch, &c. (In MS written $\underline{^{ch}}$)

^{n} (super) is nasalized, and follows a nasalized vowel, as o^{n}. (In MS written $\underline{^{n}}$)

An apostrophe (') after a vowel followed by another letter gives the long sound to the vowel, and may also indicate an omitted or silent letter.

An apostrophe (') at either end of a syllable calls for an exploded sound.

An exclamation (!) after a letter indicates that the letter is stressed.

THE ALPHABET

My vocabularies are written, so far as possible, in simple phonetic English. The words are divided into syllables separated by hyphens. The accented syllable is marked with the acute accent (′).

1. Sounds that have a fixed and definite value in English, like our words pin, peg, hat, not, and so on, are pronounced exactly as in English. In such syllables diacritical marks are unnecessary and as a rule are omitted.

2. Sounds represented in English by a double consonant, or by a syllable the pronunciation of which is not phonetic, are always spelled phonetically. Thus the sounds represented by our words all and who are written awl and hoo.

3. Unmarked vowels, except in syllables having a fixed value like those mentioned in section 1, have the usual long or pure sound given them in the English alphabet.

4. An unmarked vowel standing alone (as a syllable or word) always takes its long or pure alphabetic sound.

Key to vowel sounds, diacritical marks, and so on.

ā as in acorn, date, late, mane.
ah as in far, father, what.
aw as in awl, awful.
ē (or e unmarked) as in eject, eternal, meat.
ĕ as in end, met, net, check, peg, pen, her.
ī (or i unmarked) as in ice, iron, pine, file.
ĭ as in it, ill, pin, fin, fit, pick, admit.
oo as in ooze, spoon.
oi as in oil, boil, join.
ow as in how, plow, out.
ū (or u unmarked) as in mule, mute, acute. If the u sound forms a syllable by itself, it is commonly spelled yu, pronounced you.
û for a somewhat uncertain or obscure vowel sound, as in but and sun, known as the 'neutral vowel.'

Prolonged vowels are indicated by doubling the letter (as aa, ee, &c.)

Prolonged or trilled consonants are indicated by a double acute accent (″).

The consonants, except c, g, and q, have their ordinary English values; c and g having in English both hard and soft sounds, require special treatment; q is not used. The q sound occurs only before u, and is better represented by kw (kween instead of queen).

c is never used except before h, as in chin, chum, chap, church. It is commonly preceded by t to render the pronounciation more correct. Hence the usual combination is tch, as in hatch.

g is always hard, as in get, give, grind.

j is always soft, as in jet, jam, jelly, judge.

s has its usual sound, as in see, sink, soft, &c., and is also used instead of c for the soft sound of c in our words cent, cinder, mice.

^{ch} (super) has the soft sound as in german ach, büch, &c. (In MS written $\underline{^{ch}}$)

^{n} (super) is nasalized, and follows a nasalized vowel, as o^{n}. (In MS written $\underline{^{n}}$)

An apostrophe (') after a vowel followed by another letter gives the long sound to the vowel, and may also indicate an omitted or silent letter.

An apostrophe (') at either end of a syllable calls for an exploded sound.

An exclamation (!) after a letter indicates that the letter is stressed.

INDIAN VOCABULARIES COLLECTED BY C. HART MERRIAM

Name of tribe To-chó-be ké-ah Home of tribe Briceland region, expanded to cover all bands from coast at Shelter Cove, easterly to South Fork Eel River in Garberville region. South to Usal

Vocabulary obtained from Sally Bell, a full-blood old woman

At (place) her home at Needle Rock Cross Roads Date Aug. 24-26, 1923

Remarks Language, when spoken clearly, easy to write. Some words have a whispered s initial letter as s'Chet (younger brother), s'Tahk (my father), s'Chahng' (belly). Initial T sometimes explosive (marked with dot, thus Ṫ).

THE ALPHABET

My vocabularies are written, so far as possible, in simple phonetic English. The words are divided into syllables separated by hyphens. The accented syllable is marked with the acute accent (′).

1. Sounds that have a fixed and definite value in English, like our words pin, peg, hat, not, and so on, are pronounced exactly as in English. In such syllables diacritical marks are unnecessary and as a rule are omitted.

2. Sounds represented in English by a double consonant, or by a syllable the pronunciation of which is not phonetic, are always spelled phonetically. Thus the sounds represented by our words all and who are written awl and hoo.

3. Unmarked vowels, except in syllables having a fixed value like those mentioned in section 1, have the usual long or pure sound given them in the English alphabet.

4. An unmarked vowel standing alone (as a syllable or word) always takes its long or pure alphabetic sound.

Key to vowel sounds, diacritical marks, and so on.

ā as in acorn, date, late, mane.
ah as in far, father, what.
aw as in awl, awful.
ē (or e unmarked) as in eject, eternal, meat.
ĕ as in end, met, net, check, peg, pen, her.
ī (or i unmarked) as in ice, iron, pine, file.
ĭ as in it, ill, pin, fin, fit, pick, admit.
oo as in ooze, spoon.
oi as in oil, boil, join.
ow as in how, plow, out.
ū (or u unmarked) as in mule, mute, acute. If the u sound forms a syllable by itself, it is commonly spelled yu, pronounced you.
û for a somewhat uncertain or obscure vowel sound, as in but and sun, known as the 'neutral vowel.'

Prolonged vowels are indicated by doubling the letter (as aa, ee, &c.)

Prolonged or trilled consonants are indicated by a double acute accent (″).

The consonants, except c, g, and q, have their ordinary English values; c and g having in English both hard and soft sounds, require special treatment; q is not used. The q sound occurs only before u, and is better represented by kw (kween instead of queen).

c is never used except before h, as in chin, chum, chap, church. It is commonly preceded by t to render the pronounciation more correct. Hence the usual combination is tch, as in hatch.

g is always hard, as in get, give, grind.

j is always soft, as in jet, jam, jelly, judge.

s has its usual sound, as in see, sink, soft, &c., and is also used instead of c for the soft sound of c in our words cent, cinder, mice.

^{ch} (super) has the soft sound as in german ach, büch, &c. (In MS written $\underline{^{ch}}$)

^{n} (super) is nasalized, and follows a nasalized vowel, as o^{n}. (In MS written $\underline{^{n}}$)

An apostrophe (') after a vowel followed by another letter gives the long sound to the vowel, and may also indicate an omitted or silent letter.

An apostrophe (') at either end of a syllable calls for an exploded sound.

An exclamation (!) after a letter indicates that the letter is stressed.
